Biography

I am a Registered Dietitian and Project Manager who is passionate about health education and promotion and supporting people on their health journeys. I specialize in learning experience design, particularly in the digital space and have years of experience creating and delivering programming is grounded in a learner and patient-centric approach.

My current role as Manager, Lived Experience, Engagement & Support at Heart & Stroke, allows me to listen and learn about the needs and experiences of people living with heart and stroke-related conditions. I am involved in developing and helping people connect to the information, resources and support they are looking for as well as opportunities to advocate and support others.
