

Canadian Women's Heart Health Alliance

Training and Education Working Group | Member Profile

Natasha Tang, HBSc

Clinical Trainee, Queen's University School of Medicine

Kingston, ON

Member since 2021

Biography

Natasha is a fourth year medical student at Queen's University. She completed her undergraduate degree in molecular genetics at the University of Toronto. Her interests include medical education, patient advocacy and community service. She previously completed a medical education studentship with the Office of Professional Development and Education Scholarship at Queen's University, where she worked on CPD/CBME projects, curriculum analysis and curriculum development. She is currently using her skills to advocate for gender-specific cardiovascular teaching in the undergraduate medical curriculum.