Biography

Dr. Rosalie McDonough is the CEO of Collavidence Inc. During her graduate studies in molecular biology and genetics at McGill University, she experienced first-hand the struggles researchers faced trying to get their work funded. After finishing the program with a Master of Science, she moved to Germany to attend medical school at the University Medical Center Hamburg-Eppendorf, beginning her residency at in the Department of Neuroradiology. Through her research, she was able to secure a position as a Calgary Stroke Program research fellow under the guidance of Dr. Mayank Goyal (co-founder of Collavidence). This experience has only served to solidify her desire to help move stroke research forward. She hopes Collavidence will be her opportunity to do so.
